District Offices and E.T.A.L. Move to Leona Doubek Building

Per 2015 referendum, move will assist with district operational efficiencies

EAST TROY, Wis. — In keeping with the referendum approved by voters in 2015, the East Troy School District in early January, moved the offices of central staff and the Alternative Learning program to the Leona Doubek Building.

E.T.C.S.D. central office staff and the East Troy Alternative Learning program were occupying space at the Chester Byrnes building.

“The referendum that was passed by voters in April 2015 has resulted in a continuation of the great things that are taking place our district,” said Ted Zess, president of the East Troy School Board. “The moving of the district offices and the alternative program to the Leona Doubek Building is another positive move that, as according to the referendum plan, will lead to greater efficiencies.”
